Contagious Architecture: Computation, Aesthetics, and Space (Technologies of Lived Abstraction)

Luciana Parisi

In Contagious Architecture, Luciana Parisi offers a philosophical inquiry into the status of the algorithm in architectural and interaction design. Her thesis is that algorithmic computation is not simply an abstract mathematical tool but constitutes a mode of thought in its own right, in that its operation extends into forms of abstraction that lie beyond direct human cognition and control. These include modes of infinity, contingency, and indeterminacy, as well as incomputable quantities underlying the iterative process of algorithmic processing. The main philosophical source for the project is Alfred North Whitehead, whose process philosophy is specifically designed to provide a vocabulary for "modes of thought" exhibiting various degrees of autonomy from human agency even as they are mobilized by it. Because algorithmic processing lies at the heart of the design practices now reshaping our world -- from the physical spaces of our built environment to the networked spaces of digital culture -- the nature of algorithmic thought is a topic of pressing importance that reraises questions of control and, ultimately, power. Contagious Architecture revisits cybernetic theories of control and information theory's notion of the incomputable in light of this rethinking of the role of algorithmic thought. Informed by recent debates in political and cultural theory around the changing landscape of power, it links the nature of abstraction to a new theory of power adequate to the complexities of the digital world.

Second, looking at a book will make you more imaginative. When you studying a book especially fictional works book the author will bring you to imagine the story how the figures do it anything. Third, you can share your knowledge to other folks. When you read this Contagious Architecture: Computation, Aesthetics, and Space (Technologies of Lived Abstraction), you can tells your family, friends in addition to soon about yours e-book. Your knowledge can inspire the mediocre, make them reading a e-book.

Betty Brown:

You could spend your free time you just read this book this book. This Contagious Architecture: Computation, Aesthetics, and Space (Technologies of Lived Abstraction) is simple to develop you can read it in the recreation area, in the beach, train as well as soon. If you did not include much space to bring the actual printed book, you can buy the actual e-book. It is make you simpler to read it. You can save typically the book in your smart phone. Thus there are a lot of benefits that you will get when one buys this book.
